

ANNOUNCEMENT

REQUEST FOR SPECIAL SUBMISSIONS

We would like to receive special submissions of articles containing appropriate datasets that could be presented on diskette. The article must be of substantive interest and meet the editorial guidelines established for the Review. In order for the datasets to be of interest to the readership of the journal, they should contain tables or tabulations of comparative international data or of other data which are of particular methodological interest in the field of income and wealth. Examples include the datasets already included in the March and June issues of the Review. Authors will be expected to supply the sets of tables or tabulations on IBM PC compatible diskettes. However, the editor of the Review will assist authors in formatting or setting up their tables and tabulations into the reference library system used for dissemination. Authors should submit proposals in outline form for these special articles and provide examples of the tables to be included.
